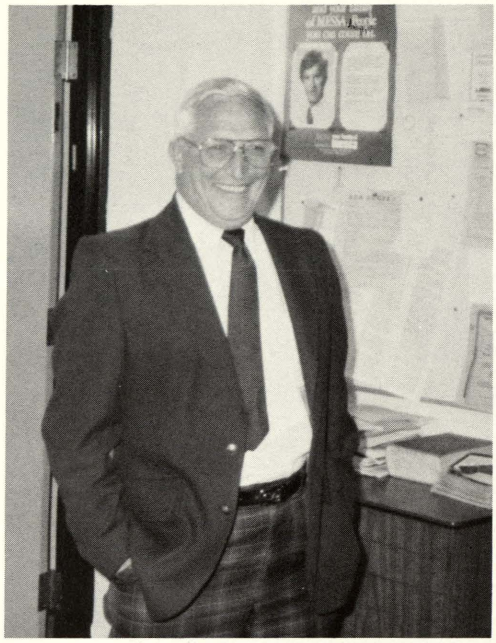
"Thanks For The Memories"



Duane Maas

"Duke"

DEDICATED TO —

Mr. Duane Maas — principal, teacher, mentor, and good friend.

Your thirty years of dedication and service to the Saginaw Public School District and South Intermediate School will not be forgotten.

Fond memories will last with all of us who knew and worked with you.

As the saying goes: "Girls can do anything." If that saying is true, girls should be able to play basketball. And basketball is what they are doing this year with a grace and style all their own.

The fast moves across the floor and jumpshots are what make basketball come to life. The girls are making this game come to life every second they are on the floor.

This is what girls' basketball is all about; they are doing it their own way.

If girls do everything like they play basketball, they sure will be able to do anything they want to do.

Let's hear it for all of those boys! They are of supreme quality of course. They are all from South! These boys have put all of their skills together and made a wonderful team that can play basketball better than anyone else. This team has played their best this year. So, give three cheers for a team that can make South School proud. South deserves to be proud because South School is the best!

Girls just want to have fun, and fun they are having during this year's volleyball season!

The ball has vollied more than it has ever vollied before with South School's A-1 girls' volleyball team. They are proud to wear the white and green colors while making those terrific, game-winning rebounds.

South's volleyball team has no fear of any team because they well know that they are number one, the best because they are South School material.

The swim team at South is the strongest team we have, this year earning another undefeated season, same as last. The swimmers of this year's team form one of the best teams in the history of our school. This team is potentially capable of breaking many records and has no problem beating any swim team 54-17. This year, the legacy lives on.

Ah! The first day of school; an exciting day for all of us. There seems to be many more students in the 7th and 9th grades this year. In fact, we have four new teachers to help out with our larger student population. Mr. Zerba, Mr. Leonard, Mr. Wells, and Mrs. Budge join the South staff this year. Over all, the 1985-86 school year is off to a great start!

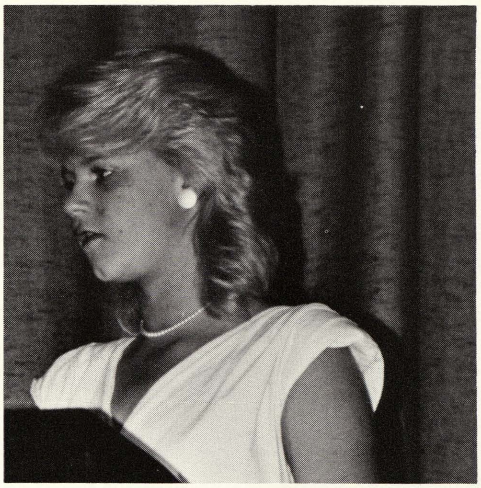
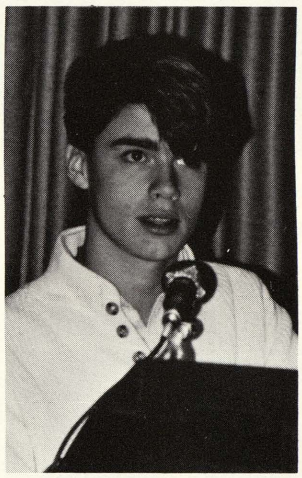
Assemblies, assemblies, assemblies. Where would this school be without them? These interesting and unique presentations can provide many things, such as excitement and valuable information. For any anti-school students, they also take one out of class.

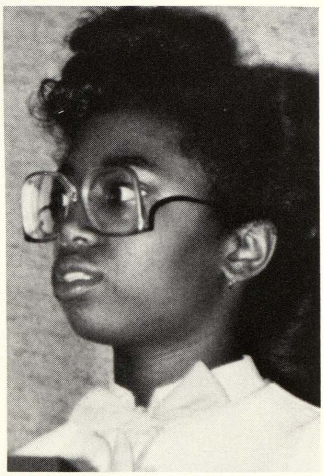
South has had many assemblies for different causes this year. The pictures on the next two pages show only a few of these assemblies. However, many of these pictures recapture some of the most important assemblies.

The picture directly to the right was taken during the first assembly South had. Yes, that's the one and only First Day Assembly. Most students were probably down in the dumps by then. They had gotten their schedules and were feeling pretty low. However, not everybody was sad, as is shown in the picture.

Tammi Burden, Pam Birkner, Lael Dalton, and Wesley Rupert: "We Can Get Together."







A student at South will quickly realize that the pictures directly above and directly right were taken during the President's Assembly. This assembly was extremely important because it determined who would be president of the student body at South. A listener would decide if he or she supported one of the candidates during the assembly. Afterwards, he or she would vote for that candidate. The person with the most votes would be declared president at South.

The President's Assembly was held during first hour. In the assembly, the candidates for president gave their speeches. They stated what they hoped to accomplish as president.

"We Are The World"

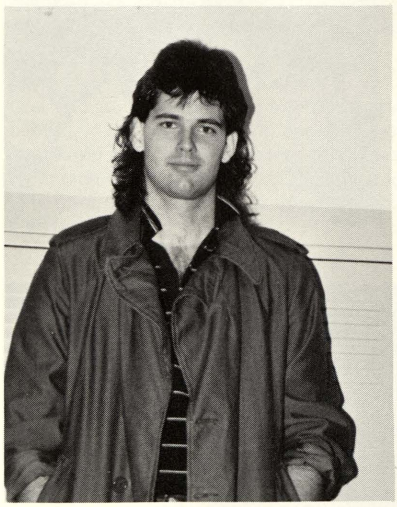
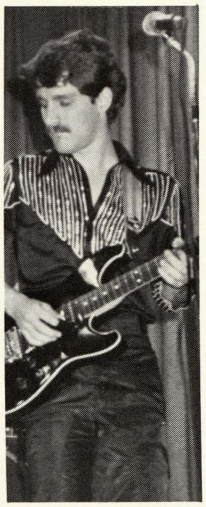
Heidi Dashkovitz and Dan Krull play their clarinets during the Honors Assembly: "They're Playing My Song."

It happened on Friday, November 8, 1985. It took place during seventh hour and really got this school's students rockin' and rollin'. Who was featured in this thrilling assembly? Legacy, of course!

A lot of students were absolutely wild about this group, and that's an understatement. This concert featured songs by other groups and individuals, and it was enough to make South's students go beserk.

The picture in the bottom left corner of this page shows the lead singer "mellowed out" when he's not singing. The middle picture at the bottom of the page shows the guitarist rockin' away, while the pictures directly below these words show two singers doing what they do well. The picture in the bottom right corner shows the lead singer striking a pose that girls might go crazy over.





"On The Road Again"

It happened on November 19. A lot of people took part in this event, and buses were a part of it too. What was the event? The beginning of the Fisher Theater trip!

After leaving South, students traveled to the Fisher Theater in Detroit. Here, they viewed "West Side Story." In this play, two gangs in New York battle for the most power. A boy from one gang and a girl from the other fall in love. They find it hard to see each other since relations between the two gangs get worse. Finally, the boy is shot by a member of the opposite gang. Both gangs feel sorrow as they carry the body away.

After the play, students stopped for lunch at McDonald's. Then, they returned to South.

The picture on the left shows Sue Richards exhausted after a long trip to the Fisher Theater: "Movin' Out." The picture below and to the far left shows Joel Engardio (on the left) and Anne Lambert (on the right). Andy Doane is pictured in the background. These people have just gotten off the bus: "Hello." The picture below and in the center shows the "extremely" excited group of Alan Ruffin, Carl Slomkowski, Deidre Kotch, and Paul Larsen (from left to right). This group is obviously stimulated by the play: "I'm So Excited." Lastly, the picture below shows Lisa Conner (on the left) and Pam McCloud (on the right). Lisa appears to be taking the play seriously, while Pam believes it's all a big joke: "You Crack Me Up."

"Footloose"

Dances . . . what are they? Well, dances are a lot of things. They are chances to meet new people, chances to talk with friends, excuses to party, and many other interpretations. Perhaps the most important interpretation, however, is something that brings out school spirit. If a person goes to a dance, that shows that he or she has the spirit to participate in South's events.

Mrs. Sternhagen: "You're Lookin' At Country."

This is the second year that South School has had Spirit Week. Some people may ask, "What is Spirit Week?" It is when five days are taken out of the entire school year to represent the "spirit" that is felt for South.

During these five days South had pin day, green and white day, sweat-shirt or t-shirt day, western day, and 50's day which led to the sock hop that was held that Friday night.

The faculty and staff participated with great enthusiasm when they challenged the Saginaw City Police to a basketball game. Students seemed to have really enjoyed the entire week.

Rebels — keep up the good work because South needs all the "spirit" that it deserves.

This was not a boring year. This year we faced terrorists in our own country, witnessed tragedies and terrorism in the Middle East, felt the cry of Mexico during the fatal earthquake, wept at the deaths of great people and the Space Shuttle Challenger. We also cheered on such teams as the Kansas City Royals, Chicago Bears and our own school sports.

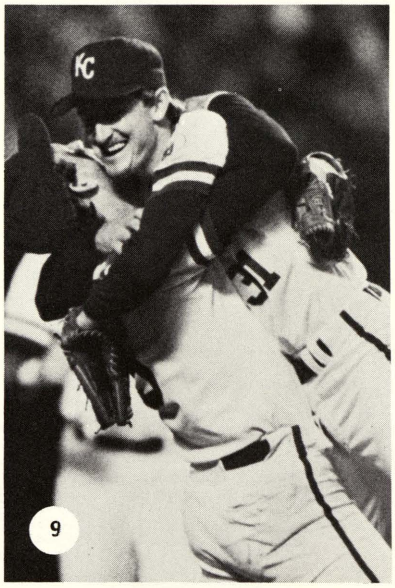
This was the year of change. We saw and heard the greatest event in musical history — Live Aid. Bands like Tears For Fears, Tina Turner, Simple Minds, and U2 rose to stardom after being unnoticed for years.

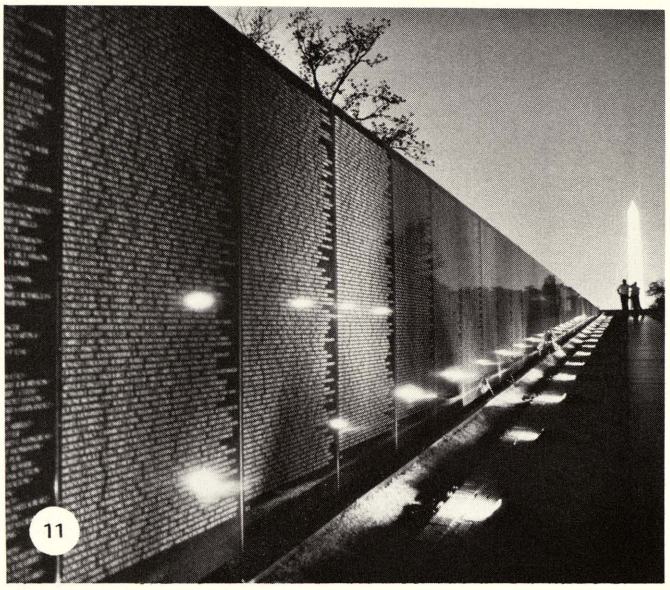
The movies that we enjoyed the most were "Rambo," "Back To The Future," "The Color Purple," "Out of Africa," and "Rocky IV," two of which starred Sylvester Stallone.

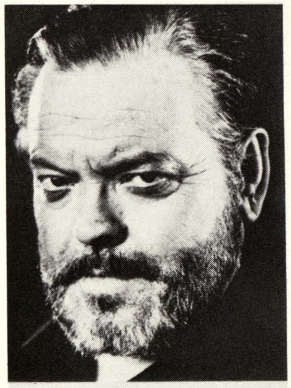
The "styles" were short hair, pastels, high-tops, buttoned collars, and jeans, but no real change since '85. The top albums of the year was "Born In The U.S.A." by legend Bruce Springsteen. As it came and went, this year made its mark in the 1980's, possibly the biggest mark of them all.

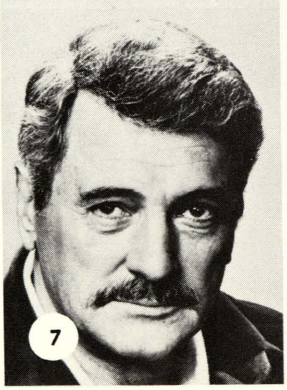
"Born In The U.S.A."

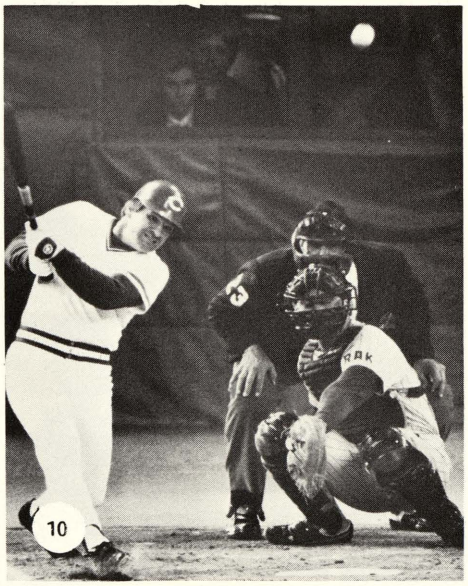
"Now And Forever"











1. Riots were an almost daily occurence in South Africa as blacks protested Apartheid. 2. The war in the Mid-East continued in 1985. A distraught Moslem man hugs his son moments after they survived a car bomb explosion outside a West Beirut restaurant in late August. 3. The explosion of the space shuttle Challenger which killed all seven crew members was the first in-flight disaster in 56 manned U.S. space missions. Christa McAuliffe, a teacher from New Hampshire, was one of the crew members. 4. President Reagan, with his wife Nancy, gives the A-Okay sign from his hospital window in July after undergoing surgery to remove a cancerous tumor from his lower intestine. 5. A series of devastating earthquakes rumbled through Mexico City in September and the death toll was in the thousands. 6. & 7. Four prominent actors died in late 1985: Orson Welles, 70; Lloyd Nolan, 83; Rock Hudson, 59; Yul Brynner, 65. 8. A Trans World Airlines jet with 145 passengers and eight crew members was hijacked in Athens, Greece, in June. 9. The Kansas City Royals won the World Series. Royals' pitcher Bret Saberhagen embraces third baseman George Brett after pitching a five-hitter to give the Royals the World Series crown over the St. Louis Cardinals. 10. Cincinatti Reds player-manager Peter Rose broke Ty Cobb's career hit record in September. 11. Ceremonies were held at various times during the year at the Vietnam Memorial in Washington to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the fall of the Saigon government in Vietnam.

Have you ever wondered why a student takes science? Well, it answers questions or gives an explanation about the every day wonders.

These questions could include, "Why is grass green?" or "Why do people grow?"

Some other things that a student will learn are atoms, cells, chemicals, and the planets.

One can make the class fun or make it a drag. So why not learn and have fun at the same time? The only person that will benefit from it is you!

Home, Run, Input, Return. The simple basics of computer technology are taught right here at South School. Yes, that's right, South has a computer class this year. It is offered to 7th grade rounds students only.

The basics are taught which lead students into making their own programs.

A certain amount of computer memory is needed to be stored inside your very own computers. Yes, the computer you take home with you every night; the very one that sits on top of your shoulders.

Working with what you know and what you can learn, you just might come out with many new programs added to the ones that you have in your computers right now.

So don't push delete and your knowledge will stay with you for the rest of your life.

Math is around us everywhere. It is needed to help us make decisions. One may be superb at math and might find a career in budgeting or accounting very interesting. But whatever you choose for your life you will never get away from the simple 2+2's of math.

South offers general math, pre-algebra, algebra and geometry. So whatever level of math you're at, South has a class that you can understand.

"I'd Like To Teach The World to Sing"

During our lives, music is one of our greatest influences. We not only find it entertaining to listen to but also to create.

Many students are interested in music, whether singing or playing it, and enjoy learning about the subject.

A musical called "The Gift" and a trip to Washington, D.C. are only two of the many projects in Mrs. Crevia's music classes this year.

Students learn typing skills by memorizing the keys and knowing the functions of the typewriter.

This is an important skill which will be useful to these students in the future.

The Journalism class publishes the newspaper and the yearbook. For South School we are the world. We do things that make South a better place to go to school.

The Journalism class is busy all year long. The class is fun and easy-going, but then there is a time when we are serious. This is the time when Mrs. Carroll comes in to take control. She is our boss and friend. If it wasn't for her there wouldn't be a Journalism class. She is the one who makes things happen.

We all work toegher, and we all help each other because — "We Write the Songs."
